In the picture we can see a person pointing at the bird in the sky.

It matches the line "Above them, a bird shaped like a question mark." from "Bestiary" because that part is about the question-mark-shaped bird that expresses her doubts and questions about the Indian men.

Here you can see a small yellow light from some kind of phone box and the dark sea around it.

It matches the part "... in this bubble of yellow light, emptiness everywhere like the tide." It talks about the small yellow light showing a little safety and warmth, and all around it there's just the sea that seems like endless emptiness. It connects to the poem because the speaker feels lonely in his little "bubble".
